HITLER TAKES OVER POST; NEW CAN TO TROOPS

KNICKERBOCKER TELLS HOW HITLER SEIZED POWER

Berlin, Aug. 2.—Hindenburg is dead. Hitler is president and chancellor both. He is supreme commander of the army, representative head of the Reich and its executive chief as well. He is now at a long last, without let or hindrance, absolute master of Germany.

By a simple cabinet decree after the provisions of the old constitution and the law concerning the succession to the presidency passed under the regime of the late Chancellor Kurt Von Schleicher were set aside and Hitler in effect named himself president.

This he did under the authority granted him by his own Nazi Reichstag, which after he came to power, passed an empowering act giving Hitler the right to decree laws affecting the constitution.

SETTLED BY ONE MOVE

Thus with one swift move Hitler settled all speculation as to how he would succeed to Hindenburg's power. Normally the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, Dr. Erwin Bumke, would have been President pro tempore until a new election.

By his cabinet decree Hitler swiftly abrogated that law and the only power in Germany which could have been an obstacle in his path has failed to act.

The Reichstag is agreeing to Hitler as they once agreed to Germany's first President, the Socialist Ebert.

The army agreed to Ebert with a heavy heart because he represented the forces they blamed for the defeat of Germany, but the army agreed because Ebert played the army game.

Today the army is agreeing to Hitler because he too played his game June 30, when he killed Reichstag and degraded the storm-troopers.

Today in the acquiescence of the army, Hitler is reaping the benefit of that act and of his subsequent Reichstag speech when, lauding the Reichstag, he said:

"I would never have put the army under the command of a man like Ebert."

Today it is too soon after June 30 for the army to have forgotten its debt of gratitude. But even if the army had wanted to act today, Hitler's speed of movement took their breath away.

"The army did not want Hitler

The Nazis also must answer for crushed little hearts, for wrecked childish dreams of happiness and play—for the daddy who did not come. While the Nazis in cold blood shot Engelbert Dollfuss to death even as he struggled to save Austria, his wife and two children waited on the beach at Nicome, Italy.

They waited there for a holiday with "the busy little giant," who sometimes took time off to play with them. Happily Rudolf and Evi and Madame Dollfuss watched the arriving crowd... waiting... just at the moment the Nazis were firing. (Picture from International News Photograph Service.)

all public buildings and schools. Ships of the nation will accord the leader a 21-gun salute tomorrow.

Amusement and other public places were ordered closed.

Traffic, shops and factories will suspend operations for one minute during the funeral hour.

In an order to military forces General Werner Von Blomberg, minister of war, said:

"Hindenburg, my leader in the Great War, has left us. His heroic life as a soldier, imbued with a spirit of duty to folk of the Fatherland, is ended. Everyone has faith in Hitler, the leader of our people."

HOW POWER IS TAKEN

Analysts of the Reich Government, by which Hitler becomes President, has the following word:

"The Reich Government has passed the following law, which is hereby promulgated:

"1.—The office of the Reich President is united with that of the Reich Chancellor. In consequence thereof, powers heretofore exercised by the Reich president are transferred to Dr. Engelbert (Hitler) and the Vice-Chancellor (Franz von Papen). He (Hitler) shall be called the Reich President."

Although power rests with Hitler, through the combination of the two jobs.

Previously he had to go through the formality of submitting plans to the Reichstag for approval.

The Reichstag now has turned over its power to Hitler and the cabinet.

Goebbels in his radio address lauded Von Hindenburg as "the great leader of Germany in the past."

He said that the causes of his uprisings, will always be remembered by the Fatherland.

BERLIN STANDS STILL

Crowds gathered throughout the nation to witness the national funeral. Activities in Berlin were almost at a standstill.

Many conservatives were fearful. They had long regarded Von Hindenburg as a check upon extreme Nationalism.

The news that the cabinet decree attained the office for which Von Hindenburg defied him in the general election.

The two ones were opponents but, rising from the National Socialist party forced the death of President Paul von Hindenburg.

The news that Adolf Hitler had taken over the Presidency as well as the chancellery came as no surprise.

Sensation in Vienna

Vienna, Aug. 2 (AP)—The death of President Von Hindenburg of Germany created a sensation in the Austrian capital today.

Newspapers printed extra. Crowds eagerly grabbed news and stood in the street to read the news. The stories were brief.

Italy's Hands Off

Rome, Aug. 2 (AP)—News that Chancellor Hitler had succeeded to the presidency of Germany was received calmly by Italian officials. They adopted the attitude that no outside criticism was called for.

France Is Worried

Paris, Aug. 2 (AP)—France sent her condolences to Germany today for the death of President Von Hindenburg, but she was not without her own misgivings.

NATON MOENS

Here in Berlin where summer sunshine glided the streets and parks, the news of the death of President Von Hindenburg was received with a half smile as thousands of citizens on their way to work learned of the President's death.

That news leveled social distinctions. Newspaper extras were shared in the middle of the street by bakery truck drivers, armed with flour, who stood shoulder to shoulder.

French observers believed that Hitler at the moment of his career, and that he must either make himself all-powerful or perish in the midst of German history.

His attempt at a concentration of power is regarded as a normal development in the effort to transform the system of leadership, maintained solely by force, into a more durable form.

Pope Sends Regrets

Castel Gandolfo, Italy, Aug. 2 (AP)—The news of the death of President Von Hindenburg of Germany was conveyed today to Pope Pius who was in the midst of his first audience at this Papal summer resort. He immediately ordered a telegram of condolence sent to the German authorities.

Death Comes at Crucial Hour in Nation's Affairs

By A. D. STEFFERUD
Associated Press Foreign Staff

Berlin, Aug. 2.—The death of President Paul von Hindenburg came today at a most crucial point in the history of Nazi Germany.

Only a month ago Chancellor Adolf Hitler's storm troopers were purged of "revolutionary" elements and the political situation was violently disturbed.

Following swiftly the uncounted deaths and executions came the Austrian upheaval, which other states linked to Germany, despite her energetic denial.

Further befuddling the horizon.

CONSERVATISM POSSIBLE

One danger of pressing problems, extremely important in itself, pertaining to finance, religion, the army and foreign exchange.

The big question now confronting Germany is the road the Nazi dictator will take toward their solution.

Neuchâtel, Germany, Aug. 2.—President Von Hindenburg's last act, as reported today by persons at his bedside, was to pick up a book on his night desk yesterday afternoon and mark with a pencil the proverb:

"With one hand he carried the sword. With the other he worked."

Then, after calling attention to the line which so well described his life, he said: "I am now, I pray, folded his hands and felt into his chest from under his breast his wakened. His face was peaceful and calm."

Mass in Berlin for Dollfuss

Berlin, Aug. 2.—On this, the day of the death of Austria's late president, Paul von Hindenburg, a requiem mass was celebrated for another government leader, Engelbert Dollfuss.

Dr. Franz von Papen, close friend of Von Hindenburg, was designated by Chancellor Hitler as his personal representative at the church service.

TROOPERS DASH 60 MILES WITH SERUM TO SAVE BABY'S LIFE

CHILD RALLIES
AFTER DEATH
RACE ENDSHub Doctors Aid Meningitis Victim in Rhode Island

Death was close to three-year-old Judith Gale Lord in a Providence, R. I., hospital today, but if her life is saved it will have been by the valiant efforts of Massachusetts state troopers.

In a dangerous 60-mile race from the Rhode Island state line to and from the Children's Hospital in Roxbury, three Pawtucket troopers rushed serum to save the baby's life. They took their own lives in their hands to do it.

From the time they were notified through the long 30 miles here and 30 miles back, but one hour ticked off the clock.

SERUM BRINGS RALLY
The little girl, victim of spinal meningitis, rallied when the serum was administered, and last night it was thought that the Massachusetts troopers' heroism and skill had saved her life. Today a critical turn came and now all eyes are fixed on whether little Judith lives or dies.

The three men who staved off death for the baby, John McCarthy, William Kilien and Herbert R. Berglund, aboard motorcycles, in single file, they sped toward Boston when they were called by Chapin Hospital authorities.

Like the three musketeers, they had agreed it was all for one, one for all. If any man dropped by injury or mechanical accident, his comrades were in on it.

STRUCKS SUNDAY
Fortunately none did. McCarthy carried the serum back, and at Pawtucket turned it over to Dr. L. A. Feinberg of Providence, staff member of the Chapin Hospital and attendant on the little girl. Two state troopers from Rhode Island sped the doctor back to the hospital.

Dr. Edwin H. Place, physician-in-charge of the South Department, Boston City Hospital, who had been called by Dr. Feinberg in consultation, assisted in attending for the serum here.

ENEMIES RY
HATCHET TO
AD COLEY

By BERNARD J. DOHERTY
In the onward movement of the Curley campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor against General Cole, the convention choice, many former bitter political foes of the mayor are swinging back under Curley's standard.

The latest to bury the hatchet with Curley was John F. Dowd of Roxbury, and former City Councilman Francis E. Kelly of Dorchester, now president of the City Council, has, it is understood, agreed to back the campaign for the former Boston chief executive.

In commenting on his decision to shake hands with Curley, Kelly, who is opposing Mayor Joseph H. Egan of Fall River for the lieutenant governor nomination, said:

"We agreed to forget past differences. We are both fighting for the same principle against the convention. We didn't couple up but we felt we should get together on this common issue particularly as we are at present holding no public office."

FIGHTS GREW WARM
"When I was serving the people in the capacity of councilman, I was not my duty to disagree with the mayor on subjects that I felt were not for the best interest of the people. Our fights have warmed at times but the most part they were over the spending of the people's money."

Gratification over the results of the registration figures of voters in Boston was expressed by Mayor Curley in speeches before Woburn, Winchester, Attleboro and Melrose at Curley headquarters.

The mayor revealed that 4300 have been put on the list of the police listing in April bringing the total registration up to 275,000, or within 25,000 of the peak registration in the Roosevelt campaign of 1902.

LISTS HELD UP
Because of the failure of the city election department to make the registration list available due to lack of funds, Curley said it appears that they will not be ready until after the usual time, on August 20.

Curley also revealed that he has in excess of $20,000 placed to his cause as against a total vote cast for all candidates during the previous two years ago with several weeks remaining to await the list.

For the purpose of adding more names to the registration list, he announced that 500 canvassers have started to visit homes in the city.

Curley also announced that the former mayor's former registrar of motor vehicles, candidate for next Republican and Democratic nominations for governor, at his headquarters in the American House, disclosed that he has more literature on lower cost automobile insurance rates to every owner of one of the most popular types of motor vehicles in the state.

Vermont, Aug. 2.—Dr. Leo Rosier, attorney for Ivan Podersky, international advertiser, held here in connection with the disappearance of Miss Agnes Tufts, New York woman lawyer, appeared to the courts today to limit the further imprisonment of Podersky to six weeks. A similar plea was made on behalf of Miss Susan Frankland, Podersky's wife, held with him.

Six weeks ago the New York police called Vienna authorities that new evidence has been uncovered linking Podersky with the disappearance of Miss Tufts. The New York officers had not produced their reported evidence.

Vienna, Aug. 2.—The trial of Paul Hudi, former first lieutenant in the army, for whom the most extraordinary intervention has been made by his attorneys, began today at 9 a. m. (U. S. N. Y. time).

He is the third of the 14 Nazis arrested in the chancellery after the murder of Dollfuss to be tried. The trial was halted at 10 o'clock to allow the lawyers to confer. A verdict is expected late this afternoon.

When called upon to make a statement Hudi said:

Just then Judge Krenshuber, one of the three justices who have the power to sentence Hudi to the gallows, interrupted the trial by exclaiming that his postcard had been "stolen by a pickpocket as he had entered the courtroom."

Spain, worried about Communist outbreaks, especially in the north, is preparing for a "Communist Red Day." It would be interesting to know just what the Communist party expects and wants, what its plans are, apart from a general program of dissatisfaction. This is not said in criticism or contempt. A party or a theory, however vague, which springs up in so many parts of the world has a meaning.

Thoughtful Communists cannot advocate "common ownership of property." If you divided up tomorrow everything in the United States, or any other country, without providing for management of production and distribution, you would have chaos and famine soon. There has never been a real Communist experiment. Russia is far removed from it, being simply a dictatorship, in which nobody except a few rulers actually OWNS anything.

It might be well to select some small country, if it would consent, and let Communist philosophers try their theories there, fully and completely, with reasonable financial assistance, and see how it would work out. Thus far men have attained results because they have been selfish for themselves, solutions for their children, greedy for power, ambitious, seeking distinction. If there is any better way of making human beings work and progress, it would be desirable to know about it.

Canada has borrowed $50,000,000 from American banks at 2 per cent interest, and is proud with good reason.

New York, the biggest, richest city in the world, has to pay higher interest than that but is proud from its own New York city bankers.

What is it that makes Canada so much safer than New York? Every man who understands international finance knows that if anything like a collapse happened to the United States, the British Empire would crumble up in sympathy. Canada included.

PROBLEM CHILD

YOUNG BOB LA FOLLETTE IS A "PROBLEM CHILD" TO THE POLITICAL SITUATION IN WISCONSIN.

HAVING BOLTED THE REGULAR TICKET HE IS A PAIN IN THE NECK TO THE G. O. P. RUNNING AS A PROGRESSIVE IS HIS OWN HEADACHE, WHILE JIM FARLEY HAS MISERIES GALORE.

THE ADMINISTRATION MIGHT LIKE TO HELP LA FOLLETTE, BUT WHAT ABOUT WISCONSIN DEMOCRATS?

THE BALANCE OF POWER APPEARS TO BE IN MR. ROOSEVELT'S HANDS. THAT'S WHY ALL EYES ARE FOCUSED ON THE PRESIDENT'S SCHEDULED SPEECH EARLY IN AUGUST AT GREEN BAY.

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

Washington, Aug. 2.—General Hugh S. Johnson, the big Blue Eagle man, like the balance of humanity may be no hero to his valet, but he is to his head waiter. A good trencherman, the general has endeavored himself to the nimble penny who take care of the inner man of the national celebrities at Washington's well-known restaurants.

At table, where General Johnson loves to surround himself with a coterie of choice spirits, he is as mild as the proverbial sucking dove. However, rich and vigorous his vocabulary when addressing recalcitrant business men, in the presence of the waiter the Blue Eagle mogul is calm, quiet, and has never yet been known to "kick back." Thus does the real man perchance come to the surface under the benign influence of good food.

General Johnson's favorite dish is cold roast flanks, prepared in a simple way, and served in the shell. He watches down the delectable dish—one of Washington's best—with beer. And beer, by the way, is the favorite luncheon tipple at the capital this summer. The old days of the exuberant gormetage, which made the city famous, have passed away, and have not been replaced by the new deal. Gen. Johnson has invented no new dish and neither has Donald Riebsch, or Colonel George Berry, who are frequently seen at General Johnson's table. Now it wasn't like this in the olden times. With all the high society brain trusters here created nothing new in the culinary line.

Old Dishes

The old-time dishes in which the Washington epicures of a past age took such delight are even so rare, nobody in the bistro-trait Nobody seeks the privilege of putting into the kitchen and cooking his own favorite dish, as General Hugh S. Johnson, who introduced to Washington, used to do.

Dr. Arthur Macdonald, Washington's noted Metaphysical Astrologer, has been reported by the press.

U. S., CANADA AGT TO HALT TWO-WAY RUM SMOUGLING

A huge increase in rum smuggling—both ways—across the northern New England-Canada border, has resulted in an agreement between the United States and Canadian governments for enlargement of the border customs patrol, the Boston Evening American learned today.

Four new United States guards went on duty this morning and eight more will be added within a few days. Canada will add 12 more smuggling guards within a few days. Most of these had a capacity of turning out 250 gallons of alcohol a day. All of them were in operation.

LARGE PROFIT IN STILLS
 The agents are aware that these represent only a drop in the bucket in the aggregate of illegal still work. Although one of the seized stills was larger than any other, the federal agents, there are numerous small stills hidden away in city buildings and country barns, stilling out colorless liquid which can be cut seventy times and in the re-refining of which there is profit beyond the fondest dreams of the bootlegger.

RETURN WITH LOADS
 Whereas most of the ship-board smuggling is of 100 proof Belgian alcohol, fast cars coming down across the border into New England—most of them carrying multi-ton loads—are bringing Scotch and Canadian whiskeys, some of good grade, but all of it adding not a penny in tax revenue to Uncle Sam's treasury.

CONFIRMS AMERICAN STORY
 At Portland, Me., Henry R. Gillis, chief, during prohibition, there are numerous small stills hidden away in city buildings and country barns, stilling out colorless liquid which can be cut seventy times and in the re-refining of which there is profit beyond the fondest dreams of the bootlegger.

Hindenburg distinguished himself for bravery in his first battle and won the name of "Hero of Bossberitz." He ordered his men a small detachment of the Third Guards, to charge on Bossberitz when the enemy was preparing to attack. The young lieutenant was struck in the head by a bullet but his metal helmet saved his life.

The next four years (1999-2002)

co-Prussian war and the World War, Hindenburg gained a name as a great tactician and strategist. He rose to the rank of Colonel and then to General, and his popularity was the greatest of any officer in the German army. It has been said when he retired from active service in 1911.

As a military commander, General Von Hindenburg possessed the rare ability to envisage at a glance rate ability to appraise at a glance of territory, he gained for his army a position of immense defensive strength. The withdrawal was carried out with the greatest skill and secrecy, and the Allies hardly realized it until it was complete. That withdrawal is generally recognized as a brilliant military maneuver at which coming generations may marvel.

BOSTON AMERICAN and SUNDAY ADVERTISER

SHOWDOWN DUE ON OIL FARM PROTESTS

Few times in the history of this state have citizens of any community shown such a united front as those in Roserville showed today in their concerted opposition to proposed establishment of a thirty million gallon "oil farm" on the Myrtle river.

Twice Roserville town fathers have met to vote on the matter of granting a license for these oil tanks. Objections blocked the grant. At another meeting, the question will be decided.

But in the meantime, three protest mass meetings have been held in various quarters of the city. Thousands of protest petitions have been signed, and big business interests have declared themselves opposed to the "oil farm."

To top off the fight, Medford's board of aldermen today forwarded a resolution representing citizenry and protesting Medford bases its objection on the ground that the "oil farm" site is close to the Wellington district, a heavily populated residential area.

More than a thousand parishioners of St. Polycarp's Church in Roserville, all signs of protest petitions, are expected at a mass meeting called on the evening of the 31st at the school hall for 8 p. m. tomorrow.

This evening at the same hour, residents of the Ten Hills section of Roserville meet for the same purpose at the Grinnon school. Tomorrow evening at Northwesterly Junior high school auditorium a third protest convention has been called.

POPE HONORS MILFORD PAIR

By Associated Press
Milford, Aug. 2—A cablegram of congratulation from the Pope was received today by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Shaugnessy upon their golden wedding anniversary. Observance of the anniversary was made almost a town holiday.

A feature of the occasion was the celebration of a pontifical mass at St. Mary's church by the couple's son, Most Rev. Gerald M. Shaugnessy, bishop of the Seattle (Wash.) diocese. Many church dignitaries were in attendance.

The cablegram from the Pope read: "The Holy Father sends congratulations and apostolic benediction to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Shaugnessy on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary. Pledge divine favor."

Leominster Girl Killed In Crash

Leominster, Aug. 2—Miss Marie Alberts, 22, of Leominster, is dead today, and Henry J. Chabot, 36, of Chapin street, Pawtucket, R. I., is dying, the result of a collision between the car in which they were riding and a truck today at Worcester-Leominster road.

Upon arrival at the hospital the girl was pronounced dead and remained unidentified until police finally learned she was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Alberts. Chabot is suffering from a fracture of the skull, and a broken arm and leg.

Extradition Is Due for Bank Suspect

Augusta, Me., Aug. 2—On the recommendation of Attorney General Clyde R. Chapman, Governor Louis J. Brann announced that he will sign extradition papers for Theodore Craig, held at Portland as an alleged accomplice in a bank holdup at Grand Haven, Mich.

If Chapman, appointed to interview Craig and his wife, is convinced that Craig is the same man whose photographs accompanied a fleecy charge he held a machine gun during the holdup in August, 1933, Craig's commitment will not oppose extradition.

'SALADA' TEA

Stage Storm Center

When Katharine Hepburn quit the cast of "Dark Victory" at Ivoryton, Ct., plenty of trouble started. Company Manager Lawrence Anhalt hopes he can keep the case out of court. Miss Hepburn left the cast because Stanley Ridges, the leading man, had quit.

The Hartford girl, who starred in "Little Women" and other screen successes, was asked to make her return to the legitimate stage next week on the stage where she made her professional debut here, several years ago.

Just as rehearsals for the play, "Dark Victory," were underway, Stanley Ridges, who was to take the leading male role, withdrew from the cast explaining he was forced to do so because of illness in his family.

This made a "waterloo" out of "Dark Victory" because the play was canceled. Lawrence Anhalt, manager of the New York players, the Ivoryton Summer Theater Company, yesterday said Alexander McKelvie, New York producer, who had contracted to supply funds with the play and Miss Hepburn, had repudiated the contract.

Meanwhile, Miss Hepburn had left night sent Anhalt a letter signed "Affectationally Katharine," which she asked he read to the audience. In it she told of the difficulty of filling the male role and said her studio had given her permission to come from Hollywood to the Ivoryton matter can be settled out of court.

Producer McKelvie had said he was going to take action on Ridges' withdrawal with the Actors' Equity Association in New York, but yesterday the association said the matter had not yet been filed with them.

The drive of the League of Decency against motion pictures termed "anti" was begun today. The communication was said to have been put in New York "some time on July 31" by Martin Quigley, representative of the Bank Association.

Joseph M. Kirby, state deputy of the Knights of Columbus stated that the plans of his body and those of the League were in effect immediately after the deadline for reception of this letter had been passed.

The drive is thoroughly organized. League leaders have constituted a board to pass upon motion pictures. If one is judged unclean or immoral, it goes on the banned list. Catholics in each Catholic church parish are notified, and in turn their workers into a canvass of families in their districts.

These families are called upon to sign pledges that they will not attend theaters showing the banned picture or pictures and notification of the protest is made to theater owners and managers.

Meanwhile Rev. Russell M. Sullivan, S. J., spokesman for Cardinal O'Connell, left Boston on a vacation trip. R. J. stated. His destination was taken as an indication that some agreement on pictures released before July 15 had been reached.

The Zion Herald, New England Methodist weekly, announced that the part of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the clean moral crusade, it declared that the Methodists were in co-operation with the League of Theology and the Federal Council of Churches.

Airport patrols all over the state today stood watch for a youth who is reputedly New England's first air pirate.

Police from Stratford, Ct., sent out the alarm. They charged that a pilot took an OX-5 Swallow plane without permission of its owner, Emory Perry, of Shelton. The ship is a red and yellow biplane.

Edward Griffin, 22, of West Haven, Ct., is charged with the larceny. According to Mollison airport attorneys, he presented a quote reading:

"The bearer of this note is an interested buyer for my ship. Please admit him to my ship. He is going to buy around."

It was allegedly signed with over Perry's name.

Father Gives Up Attempt to Win Back 'Boss' Bride

Although Frank Brown, Malden bookbinder, twice he would remain in Miami until he was certain his daughter was happily married he was flying home today.

The daughter, Hilda, was wed to Zeyner and Julia Specior, who worked in the Brown bookbinding, on July 21. She didn't tell her father about her plans at all and she and Specior sailed southwards.

When he learned of the wedding, Brown took a plane to Miami, greeting the honeymooning couple as they walked down the gangplank. He explained what followed: "I have never approved of my daughter's marriage and it is my opinion that they have never been legally married. I wanted them to return to Malden for a church wedding, but they refused to come back home with me."

At the time that he landed in Miami, on July 21, Brown went to a hotel staying flatly that he wouldn't leave until convinced his daughter was happily married. His daughter visited him several times but the father didn't visit her in the little apartment she and Specior rented.

The newlyweds were greeted with open arms by Specior's parents who were waiting in Miami.

He was dead when he arrived at the Gale Hospital. Authorities said the driver of the truck, Raymond A. Young, apparently was not at fault.

This Is Life

by ROBERT E. ROGERS

Two sayings of the past week linger in the memory with tragic implication. The first was uttered by a Cardinal of the Catholic Church over the grave of Chancellor Dollfus. This generation, he said, has had to stand over open graves like this far too often.

The second occurred in Chancellor Dollfus' last published statement, which read in last Sunday's Advertiser. More sorrowfully than angrily he said that one of the chief causes of the trouble in his country was the educated youth, irritable and discontented, who had never had the opportunity to do any work, who had got into the habit of relying on their elders for support, yet who could not or would not recognize the value of the sacrifices those elders had made for their country, or even the value of their country itself as an ideal.

As a commentary on this, by the way, read that charming little article, "A Visions for Tooi," written by Sinclair Lewis' wife, Dorothy Thompson, in the July Harper's—all about a young Socialist idealist of Vienna who died defending his co-operative apartment in the February riots. It is entirely partisan, of course, but it does give you one picture of how youth is behaving in Austria today.

To many open graves. These boys have grown up in a world in which violence and assassination and war in the streets have been too much a matter of course for any chance at settled civilization. In almost every country from 1920 to the present day, events have gone on so fast, so fast, so fast, to have any sense of security or continuity. Too many rulers, governments, ideologies, cabinets, dictators, conferences, failures of peace, threats, and so on, to have any sense of continuity. Europe has had a bad case of the jumpy always on the edge of a case of nervous contraction.

Compare these boys with the late Chancellor who about the boys who grew up in the generation before 1914. The man who ruled that world may have been small, inadequate men, but there was about the sense of permanence and stability. Things were not so fast, so fast, so fast, to have any sense of security or continuity. Europe has had a bad case of the jumpy always on the edge of a case of nervous contraction.

What they actually succeeded in doing was to infect a whole generation with the idea that society, even a living, that money is very cheap and common labor or routine service is very dear and very precious, and that anyone who asks anyone to perform a full amount of labor for his wages is a brute and a tyrant. Jack got it, and much better than his master as an inviolable, stupid person, who is not so much a tyrant as a tyrant to keep his employees pay envelopes full.

So, after the war, Jack decided to run things his way. He hired a few representatives, who thought as he did, only more articulately. Every ruler in his time, here in the United States, a Jack in office. And now, as Dollfus was said, their area, the second generation, knowing nothing present, have gone in for storm-trooping, or the pupils, or the general strike, or the youth movement in the colleges, where their motto is, "No work, no war, no capital, no discipline, no future." That, I take it, is more or less what Dollfus had in mind in his last article, and what the Cardinal was thinking as he stood over Dollfus' grave. I wish someone with the gift of tongues would say something of the sort over Calvin Coolidge's grave this month.

Portland, Me., Aug. 2.—Boston police inspectors were expected here today to question John Black and William Novak, arrested last night by local officers, in the beating administered to Patrolman Thomas J. Tierney in South Boston last Sunday.

Both youths denied knowledge of the attack on the patrolman by a mob of hoodlums, who had attempted to arrest the driver of a stolen truck near Columbus park. They suffered a broken wrist and other injuries.

O.O. McIntyre NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The long delayed uprooting of the old downtown post office removes about the last of familiar landmarks of the lower part of the island. A glowing picture of the old building, which was built in 1845, was shown today. The building was a fine example of the old architecture. It was a fine example of the old architecture.

Through it always sailed O. O. McIntyre, a lively humorist and ex. Mr. McIntyre's disciples of Park Row used to get journalistic efforts to go there to cool off. A platform of mail bags provided a counterpoint effect with temporary loafers swapped yards and small cigarettes.

David Graham Phillips once made it the exciting locale of a short story. It was a few steps from Fulton, the legendary dead line for crooks. There were many other notable features surrounding the landmark that were seized by fiction romantics. And now it's gone.

From the Parsian caricature, who started exaggerations have caused public face slappings, also writes essays for Paris and American magazines and his manuscripts are perhaps the most unusual ever received in editorial rooms. He writes at his drawing board on three feet wide paper, pasting the finished sheet to a blank one and sending it off in a huge roll. He is 75 now and still the life of every Rivera party.

Narrow Nassau street downtown at noon is rich with a living human interest. Sidewalks overflow with the parade of stenographers and clerks, all going to work. A steady stream. Curb hawkers offer all the gee-gaws and string ornaments provide music for cafeteria dances. Nassau's Dickensian life is attested by the fact Dickens asked to visit it a second time.

The desecration of Paris is best illustrated by the fact that only one night club is going at the peak of the tourist season. This is Florence's, an up-to-date place to Montmartre, a maze of little streets with a stool and counter bar. Florence is a coffee room chanteuse from deep Harlem and went to New York to see the opera. She is a very good singer. She is a very good singer.

One of Broadway's persistently whispered legends is of years of blackmail imposed upon a disreputable actress, to a franchise moment who once participated in a rather salacious private party. The original fell into the hands of an extortionist and has been held over the actress' head for 15 years. Joseph P. Kamp, once one of the city's blarneyers' worst threat is but a 10-year sensation. To fear one often means a lifetime of distress.

Thumbnails by Clements Ripley an unknown, has received $30,000, the highest price yet for film shorts in a short story. It is a fine example of the old architecture. It was a fine example of the old architecture.

A fellow fool in my building took me to his grocery today to watch him buy what he called wolf powder. He purchased a bag supply of canned goods. "That keeps the wolf away," the idiot explained.

Bunions Frequently Inherited

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D., is a brilliant surgical

NOT SO LONG ago I wrote about corns. Since then I have received many requests for information concerning bunions. Corns and bunions ions are familiar afflictions of modern civilization. It is probable that our forefathers rarely suffered from these annoying complaints. They had other and worse troubles in the prevention of further irritation. They are of particular value in that they remove pressure from the sore or inflamed joint.

trouble of this sort was not common. Normally the joints of the foot as well as other joints of the body are surrounded by small sacs. These sacs contain "synovial fluid," which lubricates the joint. The sac which contains the fluid is called the "bursa."

It is very easy for a burn to become inflamed. Pressure or irritation caused by the wearing of improperly fitted shoes, or from the lack of foot hygiene, often leads to bursitis or inflammation in the bunion

Contrary to the common belief bunion, or "hallux valgus", as it is known medically, is not always the result of wearing improperly fitted shoes. The defect may be traced to some constitutional defect.

Occasionally the condition appears without any history of pressure or irritation, and in such cases it is believed by some to be inherited. I am not impressed by this theory. It will be found that a severe blow or injury to the feet, shoes, and lack of foot hygiene are responsible for most cases of corns.

If the defect is recognized in early stages, cure can be accomplished by massage, the wearing of proper shoes, foot exercises and

Given in Marriage

By Adela Garrison

Many couples are the Impetuous Young Lovers who seem bent on hatching the "Wedding Vortex" of Love and Romance.

"In matrimony, each spouse is made provision for those plans," she said. "And I solemnly and earnestly? Oh, please, Noel, tell me if it's all true. Do you want to do all these things your father has planned for you?"

"Do I want to?" Noel's breath seemed to catch. "Yes, indeed."

"Yes, I know," Noel said. "But I'm not going to have the most beautiful experience I ever hope to have turned into a grand old story."

Net Is Transformed Into Cold Weather Fabric, Woven in Bright Wools

By Dorothy Roe

YOU'VE NOTICED that the new cold weather fabric, woven in bright wools, is a transformation of the net that has been so popular in the past few seasons.

One of the favorite tricks is to put wool net gowns in one of the new little tailored black wool

Yours truly, Dorothy Roe

Black and White Stripes are Sole Decoration

By Myrna Loy

IT'S DIFFICULT to find that "different" note in evening gowns. I was especially thrilled with this frock. It is fashioned of black and white striped tulle over a slip of white tulle. Decorative in itself, the gown depends solely upon its interesting arrangement of stripes for effect. The foundation of the frock features the stripes in a vertical direction. The first "saunt in front, long in back" flounce sends the stripes swirling around horizontally and the gathered fullness gives them a zigzag

FIRST PICTURES OF CRISES FROM THE VERY BRINK OF WAR

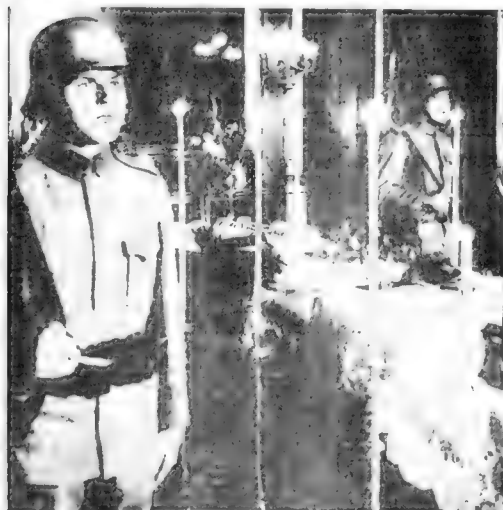

WORLD TREMBLING—The spectacular chain of events which brought Europe to the verge of war virtually began with this scene—the Nazi raid on the radio station in Vienna. Guns in hand, troops are climbing in through the windows to capture the station and broadcast the news that Chancellor Dollfuss had resigned.

WHERE DOLLFUSS DIED—The Chancellery, which a few days ago was a peaceful public building, is now the center of a formidable military array guarding Vienna from revolt. Troops are drawn up before the building, rifles in hand. They are prepared to fight against any "putsch" as that of a week ago in which Austria's Chancellor was killed. (Picture from International News Photograph Service.)

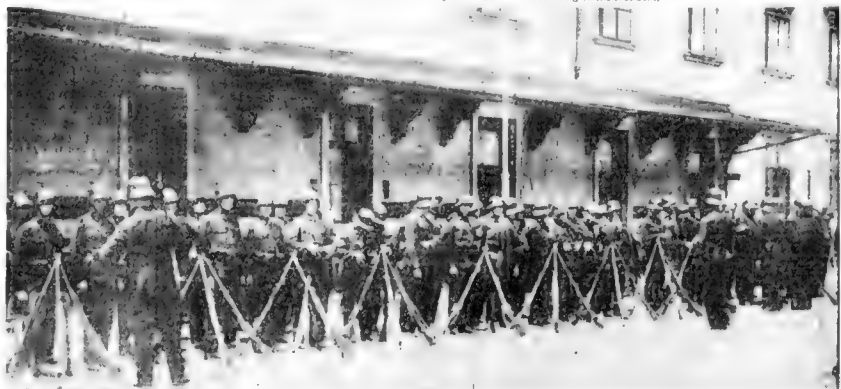

THE BODY OF DOLLFUSS BEING REMOVED FROM CHANCELLERY—Loyal Heimwehr troops form the guard of honor as the casket of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss is borne to the wreath-covered hearse which carried it to the City Hall in Vienna. There the body reposed in state before being buried with royal honors. Dollfuss was killed during a Nazi raid on the chancellery that signaled the start of their putsch. Dollfuss was starting to his last rest.

MORE ARMS—Another building is turned into a fortress. The Chancellery and the present Austrian administration. Soldiers enter the Radio Building which was one of the first objectives of the rebels in the attempted coup of last week.

REQUIEM—Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss lies in state in the Chancellery where assassins' bullets ended his career as the leader of Austria. Armed troops at his side are vivid reminders of the chaos into which his death has plunged the country. Two of his slayers have already paid with their lives. (Picture from International News Photograph Service.)

TENSE MOMENTS as orders are awaited as the members of the cabinet were treating with the Nazi group within the chancellery. Detachments of Heimwehr, such as the one pictured, were stationed in the neighborhood waiting orders. Fearing the death of the government officials within the building, no effort was made to lay siege to it, until the Nazis had agreed to leave under a "safe conduct" pact. The pact was repudiated subsequently because it was "arranged under duress" and at least three of the participants in the occupation of the chancellery have been executed, while others have been imprisoned or await trial for their part in the affair.

PICTURES SHOW GERMANY'S 'IRON MAN' IN HISTORY

FINAL REVIEW—Two years ago at Berlin, President Paul von Hindenburg, above, made his last review of his guard regiment, wearing his distinctive field marshal's uniform. Then he was in robust health. Today, at 87, Germany's beloved war hero has passed to the purlieu of Valhalla, paradise of mighty warriors.

MEN WHO RULED—Turning back the pages in German history, this picture shows Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany (left) with his loyal friend and servant, Paul von Hindenburg, then field marshal of German forces on the field of battle during the World War. Wilhelm, who abdicated, is self-imprisoned in Holland, hopefully awaiting a restoration of the Hohenzollerns to the German throne.

"FIRST IN WAR—FIRST IN PEACE"—The organizer of the famous "Hindenburg Line" was chief commandant of military forces during the World War. Upon the defeat of Germany, Hindenburg remained with his Fatherland, while the Kaiser fled to Holland and Von Ludendorff escaped to Sweden. He then started to write memoirs, above, but in 1933 he was called to the Presidency, to become the staunchest champion of the German Republic.

HIS FAVORITE PHOTOGRAPH—Von Hindenburg, photographed hundreds of times, liked particularly this camera study. It represents, he said, a man of peace, of a quiet dignity at rest in positive recollection of the years that have gone but not be forgotten.

PRESIDENT AND CHANCELLOR—Re-elected President of Germany, Hindenburg, right, appointed Brüning, von Papen, and von Schleicher to the post of Chancellor before summoning Hitler to take the reins. Hitler soon made it clear that next to Hindenburg, he—Hitler—was supreme. Only Hindenburg could "pull the brakes" on extreme Nazi violence.

HINDENBURG FAMILY—This picture shows President Paul von Hindenburg, center, at the age of 80, with his immediate family, his son Oscar, his son's wife, and his two grandchildren, Gertrude and Helga. Hindenburg did not want to die for he feared that civil strife might once again enshroud his beloved Fatherland. He lived and died—a fighting hero.

HUGE RESERVES CAUSING BIG PROBLEM

Good Borrowers Seen as Timid by the Bankers

By M. S. RUKYSEYER

COMMUNITY ARMY IS A SERVICE TO THE PEOPLE

New York, Aug. 2.—The unprecedented plugging up of unused ex-servicemen in the banks of the country, the try constitute a major let down, though you can't take a horse to water, you can't make him drink.

Rokkersbury, N. Y., for 3000 commercial banks, in fact the barrier to loan expansion is the limitation of good borrowing money.

This was not always the case. Before the bank holiday, the chief obstacle

M. S. Rukeyser was the fear of lenders, who ought to become super-lenders in order to be able to meet strains at a demand on the part of depositors. Some of the inaugurating of deposit insurance bankers recognize that the need for super-liquidity no longer exists.

In fact, some bankers perceive that it is foolish to pay the cost of deposit insurance unless they are willing to lend normally and employ funds profitably.

If banks wish to remain profitable and to stick to self liquidating short term loans, there can be no demand for funds under present conditions.

The purpose of the short term loans is to help profitable concerns meet seasonal or other peaks their business. But in this sense there are no real peaks in the phase of subnormal business volume.

Moreover, like the banks, the strong business concerns are still long of money. Since 1921, they have tried to free themselves of the banks by accumulating working capital out of profits, and through the sale of securities when the market would absorb them.

This independence from dependence on the banks started long before the current depression, and is accounted for the fact that the banks, guided by a profit motive, wandered away from the field of strict commercial banking. Their work was the bonhomie virtue of the system of banks into

If the banks intend to stick to commercial banking, they will probably have to readjust their views to diminished activity. At present the situation is aggravated by a lack of confidence on the part of business men, who are perturbed by political changes and by violence overseas. As Rudolph S. Hecht, New Orleans banker, pointed out in a recent speech:

The basic requisite to the expansion of commercial bank loans is sound, normal business conditions on which to conduct normal banking operations. The best business a bank can write for is the opportunity men and manufacturers imbue with confidence to enter upon aggressive business conclusions. Such loans mean business activity for the community, growth in payrolls and prosperity, and the banker wants to make them because he not only identifies such activities as not only means profit to him, but, additionally, brings him the reward of good will in his community.

The banker feels that he is more or less passive and that he must wait for the business community to make demands on him.

Psychologically, he could be helped by calling in his customers who have survived the depression, and reassuring them of his confidence.

By the same token, bank earnings should show the same attitude toward banks.

Curb Is Needed to Stop Rum Runners

IMMEDIATE and drastic action is needed to meet some of the major problems of prohibition that threaten to live with us during repeal.

The government, just beginning to realize the first benefits of repeal, has completed a survey showing that rum has been established again, that smugglers are dropping their contraband along our shores and that bootleggers are more active than during the year immediately preceding the end of the "dry" law.

In this illegal traffic during prohibition, widespread graft and corruption and wholesale crime were spawned as the gangs plied big-money power. We had hoped and expected that repeal would mean their end.

There are big profits still to be made in smuggled liquor because of the high government tax on alcohol and distilled spirits coming through legitimate channels.

On the New England coast during the last three months, liquor upon which a tax of $250,000 should have been paid was smuggled in, according to the government's own survey.

That is at the rate of $5,000,000 less annually, and in New England alone. And what Uncle Sam sets down in red ink becomes so much gain for the gangs and crime.

OUR local enforcement unit has done a grand job with poor weapons, seizing some $700,000 worth of smuggled or illegally manufactured liquor since March. But heretofore we are poorly equipped to wage successful war on the smugglers.

Economy has slashed the coast guard force to the very bone and along the entire coast line from Eastport, Me., to Long Island, the stretch most favored by the rum runners from the north, there are but 10 small customs vessels on patrol.

Obviously, in one way or another, the sea patrol force must be increased. Its cost should be realized many times over.

Yet more important, perhaps, is the enlargement of the tax enforcement unit ashore to smash the market for untaxed liquor and so smash the source of revenue for crime.

Criminals Are Made

An autopsy on John Dillinger's body showed that there was nothing about it to distinguish it from that of a normal human being.

Dr. Jerome Kearns, the coroner's physician, pointed out that in his experience he had found no anatomical distinctions or deviations from the normal in the brains and glands of criminals.

Science thus far has only scant justification for the view that criminals are born.

Society has plenty of support for the view that they are made, that environment is a stronger force than heredity in molding them.

Government should learn once and for all time the lesson that its task is to prevent by education and social betterment the transformation of normal children into abnormal adult individuals. Too much attention, energy, time and money cannot be given to the task.

But with adult criminals, particularly those who have shown themselves incorrigible, the sentimentalists who still hope for correction should not be allowed to have their way. Stern punishment is the only sensible course.

The Division of Investigation of the Department of Justice has the right idea. It has listed 6000 criminals, each one of whom is a "Class 1 criminal so far as the Department is concerned." Each one is to be tracked down mercilessly.

Fortunately some courts, chiefly Federal, are beginning to co-operate with the Department instead of allowing sentimentalists or legal technicalities to get in the way of true justice and protection of society.

In the fiscal year ending June 30, the Department obtained 3531 convictions, which was 93.81 per cent of the cases handled. Sentences included 1073 years of imprisonment, 1012 years of suspended sentence, and 2501 years of probationary sentence. Fines totalling $772,939 were imposed, and 5284 fugitives were found.

We congratulate the Department of Justice on this record. It is an object lesson to the police and courts in the various States and large cities—a lesson that they NEED and should NEED.

Farrar and Hanfstaengl

"Germany is the safest and most pleasant country in Europe for the traveler. There's nothing to be afraid of, nothing to worry about. You will find nothing but courtesy and hospitality and friendliness."

That's what Herr Doktor Hanfstaengl, piano-playing publicity man of Adolf Hitler, said when he was here for his Harvard class reunion. Politeness forbade saying: "Oh, yeah?" Now comes word from the Austro-German border that Nazi frontier guards sought to prevent Boston's Geraldine Farrar—still as charming as when she thrilled opera audiences with her trills—from leaving Germany to attend the Salzburg music festival. They wanted her to spend her money in the Reich.

She outwitted them by sending her car back into Germany and walking the five miles into Austrian Salzburg. But it does prove, as Herr Hanfstaengl said, that Germany is a nice country for the traveler.

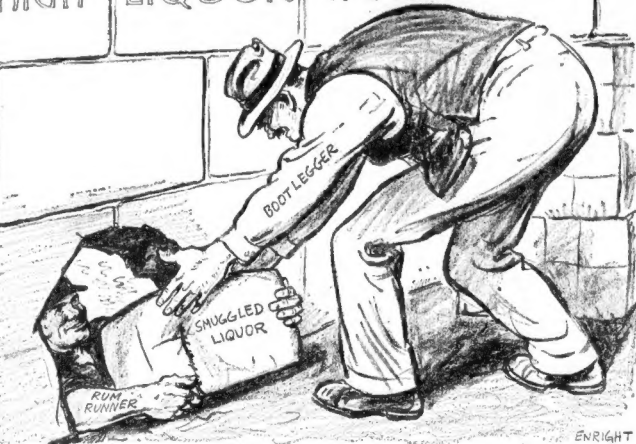

Vicious 'Kick-Back'

Senator David I. Walsh has gone to Washington in mid-June to investigate reports that contractors engaged in ERA work have resorted to the vicious "kick-back" system. In case you have not heard of it, under this system workers are forced to pay back to the contractor part of their wage for the privilege of working.

Conduct of this kind is outrageous, especially when workers are getting as little as 10 cents an hour. The ERA men say they can't afford not to pay. And they can't afford to complain.

We do not know whether the practice has been introduced in Massachusetts, but it is being reported that it is. If we are sure that he will demand vigorous action—quick and severe penalties for the offenders.

Through Hole in the Wall HIGH LIQUOR TAXES!

Reappearance of a "Rum Row" off New England has been reported, and Coast Guard vessels are keeping vigilance.

The Government is especially concerned because narcotic smuggling is mixed up in the illicit traffic.

Former rum runners at St. Pierre and Miquelon went into the "dope" traffic when Prohibition was repealed in this country.

And now the two "trades" are merged!

This news must be regarded from two aspects.

In the first place, there would be no such problem at all if we had not tried for thirteen years to have Prohibition.

Rum smuggling became "good" during these years, and rum smugglers, like some of our bootleggers, do not want to give up.

On the other hand, Government has proceeded in exactly the way to help the rum smuggler and the bootlegger stay on.

Congress seized on repeal as a new revenue opportunity.

laying heavy taxes on all liquor plus import duties on foreign products.

Then States piled on still more taxes—making it attractive to rum smugglers and bootleggers to remain in business and PAY NO TAXES.

What we need is stiff TARIFFS to protect the home market for American wines and spirits and LOWER tariffs on goods that do not compete with ours. That will assure legal supplies—provided that taxes, other than the tariffs, are KEPT LOW.

Thousands of people are going to drink, whether Prohibitionists like it or not.

And if sneaky Government makes it too expensive to drink legally and decently, nobody but the rum runner and the bootlegger will benefit.

For certainly Government will not.

Listen, World! :-:- By Elsie Robinson

She wondered—rather sheepishly—why we listen to gossip. Really malicious gossip.

And yet how could she doubt it? The friend who told her was an important person in her own way—a prominent club woman. That's how she's happened to hear the story in the first place.

The poor little woman who was the victim of the dreadful affair had come to her seeking help. Such an appealing little thing—she was not used to the ways of the world and utterly crushed by the awful thing that had happened.

Of course, the club women and her friends were simply furious and decided to champion the cause. In no time at all they had started things. And were exclaiming their sympathies. Naturally, because that made it more exciting.

So, my troubled friend accepted the story as it came. And was as indignant about it as the club-women were. Took sides with them. Said quite a few things about the famous woman who was supposed to have been so cruel.

And now it seems that there wasn't a word of truth to the story. The "poor little woman" had concocted it out of whole cloth just to gain sympathy and attention. And she really was so cruel.

with stories like that. They're so exciting—so different from the rest of our humdrum days—that perhaps one wants to believe they're true. It's like reading a dramatic story... like being part of the show one's self—

Farley's Three Jobs Blow to Merit System

By James T. Williams, Jr.

There is one decision which President Roosevelt cannot delay much longer without tapping the forces of his leadership. He must soon decide what to do with James A. Farley.

Either Mr. Farley will have to be named out of the cabinet or he must resign as chairman of the Democratic national committee and as chairman of the Democratic state committee of New York.

The country is in a mood to tolerate the holding of these three positions much longer by the same man, even so urban a politician as Mr. Farley.

The fact that Mr. Farley is directing the course of these two almost colossal committees in one day and from the same office that the American people are paying him to perform the duties of postmaster-general is chiefly blame for the sinister spread of the spoils system and the most wasteful squandering of the nation's money that men now living have ever witnessed under any administration.

PEACE WITH TAMMANY
To make the spectacle even more odious, Mr. Farley appears to have made his peace with Tammany Hall, whose new leader he has begun to organize new pieces of political pork in the form of large grants of federal patronage in the hands of the generous Mr. Farley.

To the influence of Mr. Farley is added the influence of the general to protect the numerous new federal agencies that have been set up since the administration of President Roosevelt. Every time one of these agencies is created, Mr. Farley is increased in power.

Time is the independent force of the spoils system. To the spoils system to which Mr. Farley has made his peace, there is added the influence of the general to protect the numerous new federal agencies that have been set up since the administration of President Roosevelt.
